Executive Summary

The Parker Financial Balanced (Funds Only) Portfolio recorded a strong return of +5.8% for the quarter. Markets put a challenging previous quarter behind them as softer-than-expected inflation data and the prospects of rate cuts in 2024 drove bond yields down, creating the perfect platform for both shares and bonds to rally in the final quarter of the year. Despite warnings to the contrary, 2023 turned out to be a prosperous year for markets, rewarding patient investors and reinforcing the value of staying invested even in the face of significant macroeconomic and geopolitical risks. Although there are risks to the downside which demand a cautious approach, the year ahead looks set to be characterised by a slowing but resilient economy, further cooling of inflation, and the beginning of a rate-cutting cycle. Together, these point to an environment likely to be supportive of shares and bonds.

Market Review

After a disappointing September quarter, the prospect that central banks will cut interest rates sooner and harder in 2024 than previously expected, resulted in a sharp drop in bond yields and delivered excellent returns across all major asset classes. Australian shares rallied hard into the end of the year, with the S&P/ASX 200 Index jumping +8.4% over the December quarter. Smaller companies kept pace with their larger peers as the S&P/ASX Small Ordinaries Index gained +8.5%.

International shares also rallied. The MSCI All Country World Hedged Index rose +8.7% over the quarter. Further weakness in the US dollar was a headwind for unhedged shares, which increased +5.0%. Small Companies outperformed the broader market, with the MSCI World ex-Australia Small Cap Net Return Index up +6.4%. US shares advanced +11.7% to within touching distance of their all-time high as gains broadened out across the S&P 500 Index. European shares rose +8.6%, while the Japanese market was more muted, rising +2.0%. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index (Hedged) added +5.0% despite further weakness in China, which fell -4.8%.

The interest rate-sensitive property sector, which had struggled in the face of higher-for-longer interest rate expectations for much of 2023, had a late surge. Locally, the S&P/ASX 200 A-REIT Index soared +16.6%, while globally, the FTSE EPRA Nareit Developed Index (Hedged) jumped +12.7%. 2023 was an uncharacteristically volatile year for global infrastructure, which finished close to where it started after a late flurry — the FTSE Global Core Infrastructure 50/50 (Hedged) Index rose +8.5% over the quarter.

Fixed interest (bond) markets enjoyed their best quarterly performance in a long time as bond yields continued to fall (and bond prices rose) on the prospect of rate cuts. The Bloomberg AusBond Composite 0+ Yr Index increased +3.8%, while the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond Hedged Index advanced +5.4%. Australian and US government bond markets generated healthy returns, jumping +4.0% and +5.7%, respectively. The credit (corporate bond) market staged an impressive rally as concerns about company refinancing and default risk faded. Australian and global investment-grade credit both returned +4.5% over the quarter.

Portfolio Commentary

Australian Shares capped off a turbulent but prosperous year with an impressive final-quarter rally. Passive strategy BetaShares Australia 200 ETF (+8.4%) performed in line with the broader S&P/ASX 200 TR Index. Airlie Australian Share (+9.0%) finished ahead of the market with high conviction positions outperforming. Technology-heavy Hyperion Australian Growth Companies (+16.0%) enjoyed a standout quarter as growth sectors — unloved in 2022 — continued their march higher.

International shares also enjoyed a late surge to cap off a strong 2023. Manager performance was mixed. A weaker USD was a tailwind for hedged exposure, benefiting Ironbark Royal London Core Global Share (Hedged) (+8.7%). Despite market performance broadening beyond the mega-cap and technology segments in December, value failed to keep pace with growth over the quarter. Value strategy Pzena Global Focused Value (+3.3%) trailed quality-growth strategy Fiera Atlas Global Companies (+8.3%). GQG Partners Emerging Markets Equity (+7.2%) benefitted from an underweight to a struggling Chinese market. Diversified small-cap strategy Yarra Global Small Companies (+3.8%) lagged the broader small-cap market, with healthcare exposure the biggest detractor.

The sharp drop in bond yields boosted interest rate-sensitive assets like global infrastructure. ClearBridge RARE Infrastructure Income (+10.2%) remains defensively positioned but still finished in positive territory for the year after a strong last quarter. Economically sensitive sectors such as airports, rail, and toll roads performed well and were key contributors.

In fixed interest, strong returns from government bonds (duration) were constructive for Australian and global bond strategies Western Asset Australian Bond (+4.2%) and Vanguard Global Aggregate Bond ETF (Hedged) (+6.4%). Recently added US TIPS exposure Betashares Inflation-Protected US Treasury Bond ETF (Hedged) (+4.1%) followed real rates higher. Janus Henderson Tactical Income (+2.6%) delivered robust returns, with falling yields offering a tailwind for active duration positioning in its investment credit portfolio. Yarra Enhanced Income (+2.6%) also performed well as credit spreads tightened on its high-yielding floating and fixed-rate corporate bonds.

Defensive positioning was again a drag on performance for Ruffer Total Return International (+2.1%).

Portfolio Changes

Over the quarter, we extended our cautious positioning by neutralising portfolio beta where relevant. This involved implementing a small switch from international shares to bonds to reduce portfolio sensitivity to share market moves. Inflation-linked government bonds should outperform in a higher-for-longer inflationary environment. They should also perform well relative to traditional bonds in a soft landing scenario. US real rates (adjusted for inflation) are particularly compelling in the current environment.

To reflect this in the portfolio, we reduced international shares exposure by exiting T. Rowe Price Global Equity and reallocated the proceeds into US Treasury Inflation-Protected Securities (TIPS) through Betashares Inflation-Protected US Treasury Bond ETF (Hedged).
